From the Editor

You will have already been informed that Compumag Cancun – originally planned to take place in July 2021 – has been rescheduled for January 2022 and we all keep our fingers crossed that the pandemic situation will have improved sufficiently by then! Please see the revised schedule for the submission of papers, etc., assuming all goes well!

The meeting in Cancun will be organised by our colleagues from Mexico and I encourage you to read an article in this issue reviewing activities there related to computational electromagnetics. The venue for the conference itself is of course a well known resort with superb facilities. We all look forward to attending the meeting.

The technical article in this issue is an extremely interesting introduction to and discussion of the Virtual Element Method for the numerical solution of partial differential equations, offering a generalization of the Finite Element Method. The article has been prepared by our colleagues in Italy and I am sure you will find it fascinating.

Several conferences had to be rescheduled, many will be run as virtual events, more information may be found inside this Newsletter.

Finally, the web pages of our Society have recently been updated as explained in more detail on the inside cover. In particular, the proceedings of several past Compumag conferences are now available for downloading.

I hope our world will return to some normality in the not too distant future. Best wishes to all of you.

Jan Sykulski
