From the Editor

The IEEE CEFC 2024 conference, held on the island of Jeju, Korea, was a great success, and on behalf of the community I would like to express our gratitude to the organisers. Particular thanks go to Chang-Seop Koh and Sang-Yong Jung, the Conference Chairs, Anouar Belahcen and Gwan Soo Park, the Editorial Board Chairs, and Sami Barmada, the Chair of the International Steering Committee. There were many student volunteers helping out and they did a splendid job! The island of Jeju was a very interesting place to visit, and the International Convention Centre Jeju provided a perfect venue. I am sure those who attended will have brought home splendid memories of their stay there! Please see a small selection of CEFC photos on this and the following pages. The CEFC work is not quite done yet though, as we will now be reviewing extended papers submitted to the IEEE Transactions on Magnetics.

There are more meetings later this year, including the ISTET Symposium in Stuttgart, Germany, and the IGTE Symposium in Graz, Austria, in September. And let us not forget about CEM 2025 to take place in Bruges, Belgium, in April 2025 and Compumag 2025 in Naples in June 2025! More information on the remaining pages of this Newsletter.

Finally – unless you have already done so or attended Compumag Kyoto in 2023 and paid a full registration fee – please make sure that you renew your ICS membership to continue enjoying the benefits.

Hope you will all have a relaxing summer!

Jan Sykulski
